It is the fastest sewer, making 175 stitches while others make 100. You can do your sewing in one-third less time.

It runs decidedly easier and far more quiet than is possible with any other style shuttle. It requires only two movements of the treadle to three on other machines in sewing the same length seam; one-third less foot work. By greater usefulness, and universal satisfaction for 24 years, it has proven its Superiority and Supremacy.

for former association. How precious the memory of so many in and around that inland homlet.

Personally, I have, and do admire your convictions and determined manner of procedure on all questions of justice, truth and mercy.

Your editorials, if found in the columns of religious journalism, would find expression in many a pulpit. You are indispensable, and when your voice is silenced by death, Adair county will be unable to write an obituary that will do justice to the sacrifice you have and are now making in developing that sentiment which brings peace and prosperity to county, state and nation.

I feel I am speaking the real sentiment of your countrymen; though, they may die praising you under breath, yet let me speak through the columns of your invaluable sheet the very words which struggle for expression.

I have not drawn on my imagination. I crave no recognition more than friend. I have suppressed my personal love for you in gathering these flowers, so easily plucked from the peaceful stream of our happy association.

Your Loving ex-pastor,
Joseph C. Cook,

Consolation.

LONG METRE.

Why should we mourn defeat, friends,
Or quake when Taft alarms,
Tis but the voice which Roosevelt sends
To have us ground our arms.

Then greater shall our tribute be

By tariff so revised,
To Carnegie and Johnnie D,
For ways and means devised.

Prosperity, the joyful sound,
So soothing to mine ear,
O, may the echo still resound
Till Teddies Taft will hear.

Now all your feeble voices raise,
Your guilty hearts be calm
For great protection render praise,
The wolf so loved the lamb.

Mr. Richards had delivered his crop of Burley tobacco which brought him $217.00. Mr. Frowers was explaining to Mr. Richards that the election of Mr. Taft brought about the high price of tobacco. Mr. Richards informed the old gentleman that the Republican party had no more to do with regulating the prices of tobacco than a man in the moon, but he says I can tell you what gives us high priced tobacco, is nothing more or less than the night riders, and said it would have been a blessing to the poor man if they had started years ago.

From Bro. J. C. Cook.

Denison, Texas, Nov. 9, 1908.

Editor News:—
I ask for a little space in your paper. I promised, before leaving Columbia, that I would write you and others. I have been slow to do this, not from lack of love for you or them, but for the simple reason, I wanted to see how my artillery would work on this field.

Soon after my arrival here, I received reports from quite a number of places, saying: "We welcome you. Your point is a strategic one." I took my field glasses and surveyed the lay of land and to my surprise, I found that Denison is the very gate way to the great and growing North West. A railroad town, thoroughly effected with all the ism's or dogma's known to humanity. This knowledge set me to lowering the sight on all my gun's and caused me many a sleepless night. I had fears of my meeting with defeat. I remembered how many a battle had been won by a sudden yell. I got every thing ready. I read every thing I could find on gun cotton and nitro-glycerine. (I think I spelt it correct) I figured on the power of explosive, but I thought it wise, before using the larger shell, to determine the size of the game by the use of smaller shot. I had quite a lot of loaded shells, a number of them of the "Columbia Brand," which signally failed to accomplish any thing there more than a sound, but here to my surprise the report is deadened but they are effective. It takes a General some time to plant himself in the confidence of his soldiers. I have closed three month's hard work with thirteen additions and I am glad to report through your paper to my friends in Adair county that I have the situation in hand and the shout of victory is in the air.

My mind now turns to the times when we comforted each other. I seldom left the News office without drawing on my imagination 'till your associate Editor and my very dear friend, John Ed, would brighten us all with a smile.

However, I have seen him when no living man could make him smile. When the folder would not fold, I have tried to cheer him but he would not cheer. I have talked on Presbyterian doctrine, but no response came from him, save a look of "I bet she will never fold another paper."

Knowing your force of laborer's as I do, is it any wonder that the News brings to me each week a thrill of joy? I read every thing in it. In fact, when I get a copy, I suspend the regular order of business and even such little bits of news as found in the "Personal" notice makes me grieve as a prodigal
